

Subject:	Multidisciplinary treatment of chronic food refusal in children
Summary:	CVZ has assessed the multidisciplinary treatment of chronic food refusal in children that was developed within the AWBZ. CVZ has indicated that the treatment cannot (/no longer) be regarded as AWBZ treatment and that the treatment does comply with the conditions of the Zvw. The intervention forms a 'last resort' within the framework of stepped-care treatment and must always have been preceded by treatment in a child's usual environment. Meticulousness is essential when determining the indication.
